

A

No. 81 DEC 2015/JAN 2016 LL10,000

The global art scene arrives at the

Aishti foundation

Star of beauty royal bright

Shine on this season

Just in Paris

Hôtel Providence (below)

Past the stylish ground-floor bar, past the stunning gold-tinged tropical prints, the bedrooms here come well equipped with vintage furnishings and a personal marble-topped bar stocked with all the trimmings to make a cocktail or two of your choice. 90 Rue René Boulanger, 10th arrondissement, tel. 33.1.46.34.34.04, hotelprovidenceparis.com

Juice Lab (below)

Combatting daily stresses and the glitter-fueled fatigue of party season, this cool newcomer presents a rainbow-hued selection of vitamin-packed, cold-pressed fruit and vegetable juices. Nothing like a mango-pineapple-basil juice with a touch of japaleño pepper to jolt you out of a hangover. 83 Rue des Martyrs, 18th arrondissement, tel. 33.9.53.23.33.53, juicelab.com

Hôtel L'Antoine (below)

Within walking distance of the Bastille, this Christian Lacroix-designed hotel takes no prisoners. There are photographic murals here, a patchwork of graphic tiles there, and, throughout, a riot of contemporary colors reflecting the vibrant, historic neighborhood. 12 Rue de Charonne, 11th arrondissement, tel. 33.1.55.28.30.11, hotelantoinebastilleparis.com

Karl Lagerfeld, A Visual Journey

(above)

Focusing his lens not only on fashion but also on architecture, landscapes, portraiture and abstractions, überstar Karl Lagerfeld, best known as a designer and creative director, reveals himself a curious and surprising photographer. On view until March 20 at the Pinacothèque de Paris, 8 Rue Vignon, 9 arrondissement, tel. 33.1.42.68.02.01, pinacothèque.com

Salt (below)

British chef Daniel Morgan plans his intriguing, daily-changing seafood menus based on the day's freshest catch. Accompanied by a succinct list of wines and artisanal beers, these are delectable plates well worth their salt. 6 Rue Rochebrune, 11th arrondissement, tel. 33.1.73.71.56.98, salt-restaurant.com

